Editor's notes...

SEPTEMBER 2022

Nik Allen, Editor

Hello and welcome to this month's edition of VISION LeighThorpeBay. As they say, time really does fly. Often in our publishing world, it feels like the months just whizz by, largely owing to the fact we are always planning months ahead when it comes to content, advertisers' campaigns and editorial.

My son is going into pre-school in September and my daughter is going into the big kid part of the nursery - this blows my mind. My wife and I are always in awe of how quickly the kids develop, how they communicate with one another and, of course, their ever-improving tantrums. I remember those wise words: "Enjoy the younger years; they won't last forever." And they really don't. It's all about savouring those little moments as they do go quicker than I ever could have imagined.

The moral of the story is to enjoy the present, be present and enjoy the sleepless nights. It's hard sometimes, but just remember that you will miss these days one day.

I heard a quote recently that summed it up perfectly when they are this age: "The days are long, but the years are short." This really hit home for me.

Until next month, take care of yourselves and each other.

Nik Allen

STAR QUALITY

One of the most enduring television programmes in broadcast history has certainly lived up to its famous quote – “Live long and prosper”.

And if the legacy of the iconic sci-fi series wasn't reason enough to don the Starfleet uniform, the so-called Star Trek Day – September 8 to you and me – surely is.

Legendary actor Leonard Nimoy committed almost 50 years of his life to playing the Vulcan character Spock, dating right the way back to the first Star Trek pilot episode in 1964. And until his death in 2015, the actor presided over a franchise that never lost its edge or appeal.

In fact, it's because the series is as admired today as it was on its original run back in 1966 that director J.J. Abrams has been tempted back for a third reimagination, expected to air sometime in 2023.

Before then, Trekkies have a special date in the calendar upon which they can hang their USS Enterprise hat. That's thanks to the growing popularity of September 8 on the sci-fi calendar, a date affectionately known as Star Trek Day.

The date mirrors when Trekkies got their first glimpse of the crew in 1966 – the result of Gene Roddenberry's vision of a drama inspired by Forbidden Planet, Horatio Hornblower, and Gulliver's Travels.

To say that Star Trek has blown apart pop culture over the course of its existence is something of an understatement – with revenue approaching £10 billion, it's certainly one of the highest-grossing media productions on record.

The 2009 Star Trek reboot movie by Abrams saw a new alternate timeline so as to continue with the original characters, albeit portrayed by a new cast. Indeed, the franchise has so far managed to swerve some of the prequel/sequel criticism levelled at its distant sci-fi relation, Star Wars.

Perhaps the reason for that is because Star Trek has always succeeded in showing a strong regard for humanity because it's the universe – our own shared universe – they're all fighting for. Maybe that's why it has stood the test of time for seven decades. It's certainly what fans the world over will embrace on September 8, with thousands of meet-ups celebrating characters, friendships, memories and just a bit of old-fashioned sci-fi sorcery.

Strangely, it's possible Roddenberry, the show's creator, had the Second World War to thank for his vision of space warfare; he was a brave bomber pilot for the US Army Air Force, during the conflict, and was awarded the Air Medal and the Distinguished Flying Cross, before becoming a police officer in Los Angeles.

He got his big television break soon afterwards, and so too did the likes of James T. Kirk, Dr Leonard McCoy, Montgomery Scott and others.

OLD SPICE?

IT'S 26 YEARS SINCE THE RELEASE OF THE SPICE GIRLS' DEBUT SINGLE, WANNABE, BUT MEL C IS STILL GOING STRONG

Melanie Chisholm has stuck close to her roots – following the phenomenal success of her stint as Sporty Spice with the Spice Girls, her solo career has sparked eight albums and produced three number-one singles, and will see embarking on a UK-wide book tour.

For those of us old enough to remember it, the summer of 1996 was a golden one. Britpop had given the country a unique swagger, the Euros were here, the sun was out and beer was cheap. And riding on the coat-tails was a new thing called 'girl power', pushed by a spectacular PR machine and fronted by the Spice Girls.

The legacy of the band that followed, both musically and in inspiring a generation of girls to stand tall and be heard, is well known; though perhaps the greatest accolade you can give to Simon Fuller's creation was that each member went on to achieve great things – and Mel C is no exception.

Visually, she's a world away from the tracksuit-clad kung-fu kicking star who pirouetted around stages and Top of the Pops studios – these days the singer, at 48, is stylish and motherly; yet can still mix romantic anthems with dancefloor anthems.

"For me, music has always been about evolving with the things around you," she says. "You need to follow trends, while still keeping your own sense of originality and creativity over the music you make."

Away from the bright lights, Mel C has encountered her own fair share of challenges. She's battled depression, eating disorders, and admits that up until the birth of her only child, Scarlett, in 2009, she never fully had a sense of responsibility to herself.

2022 is an exciting year for the singer, as not only has she got a number of upcoming performances, but she is also publishing her first-ever autobiography, which promises to tell all about her time with the Spice Girls as well as the years that followed. It will take readers behind the scenes of her showbiz lifestyle, as well as revealing the darker side of fame, and finally gives Mel C the chance to tell her story in her own words.

BUSINESS & PROPERTY

Take a look inside the world's most
EXCLUSIVE ADDRESS

Where do you think the world's most exclusive address is? Beverley Hills? Mayfair? It turns out the answer isn't on dry land.

That's right, the world's most exclusive property is actually on the water – the superyacht Somnio. Due to launch in 2024, Somnio has 39 on-board apartments, which are fully tailored to the owner's wishes.

What makes these apartments so special? Let's take a closer look.

THE LARGEST YACHT IN THE WORLD

Somnio is set to become the largest superyacht in the world, measuring 33,500 gross register tonnage and almost 222 metres long. Replacing cabins with luxury apartments, it will bring a whole new meaning to the phrase 'travel in style'.

A collaboration between three design firms, Tillberg Design of Sweden, Winch Design and Luttenberger Design, the superyacht is being built by Norwegian shipbuilders VARD.

REINVENTING THE LUXURY LINER

Each apartment will feature a bespoke design, with owners able to choose everything from the number of bedrooms to additional features such as gyms and private kitchens. Each apartment will also have its own outdoor area, the perfect space for seeing some of the most incredible sights the world has to offer.

On board, guests will be able to enjoy a spacious deck area, spas, two restaurants, a cinema, 10,000-bottle wine cellar and much more.

Co-founder and captain Erik Bredhe, who oversaw the €500million project, says: "Beauty may be found as much on the inside of Somnio as on the outside. As the only residential superyacht in the world, we are delighted to work with designers that complement our exacting standards. Our owners will experience only the best, as befits a yacht of this nature."

With prices starting at €15million, Somnio's actual route is a closely guarded secret, making the superyacht not only exclusive, but elusive too.

NATURAL REMEDIES FOR LIMESCALE THAT YOU CAN FIND IN YOUR KITCHEN CUPBOARD

Over the past year, one in three Brits claims that hard water in their home has worsened, with limescale becoming an increasingly common problem in many UK households.

If you are looking to eliminate limescale without the use of harsh chemicals, the below home remedies are just what you need.

VINEGAR

Have you noticed a build-up of limescale on your taps and showerheads? If so then you need to act fast as this can cause dullness, chipping and peeling. One of the most effective methods for removing this is to fill a plastic bag with white vinegar and then attach it to the affected area. Leave for 15 minutes to soak, or overnight for stubborn limescale build-up.

BAKING SODA

Limescale on the glass of your shower can be tricky to shift, especially if it has been allowed to build up. To remedy this, create a cleaning spray using 1 tsp baking powder, 1 tbsp white vinegar and 1/2 cup warm water. Spray onto the glass, leave for 3-4 minutes and then wipe with a clean cloth. You do not need to rinse the glass.

LEMON JUICE

Lemon juice is one the most versatile natural cleaning remedies available, having the ability to dissolve dirt, remove grease, deodorise and tackle limescale. Simply pour pure lemon juice into a spray bottle, spritz on the affected area, leave for 30 minutes and then clean off with water and a soft cloth.

CITRIC ACID

If you do not like the strong smell of vinegar, then citric acid is a good choice for descaling your kettle. Simply boil a half-full kettle, turn it off and unplug it. Next, add 2 tbsp of citric acid and leave for 20 minutes. Pour out the water and rinse twice before using.

Proposed theatre boosts City of Culture bid

As Southend bids to become the UK's City of Culture in 2029, the local MP met with stakeholders to discuss plans for a new theatre in Leigh-on-Sea.

Anna Firth, MP for Southend West (pictured second from left), met those involved in the project to discuss provisional plans for a new theatre in the style of Shakespeare's Globe, which will nurture local talent by being available to schools and charities.

It is hoped that the theatre will also attract international shows and famous stars.

Plans for the state-of-the-art Flagship Dome Theatre are a key part of Southend's bid to be named City of Culture for 2029.

The UK City of Culture is a title awarded every four years to a city which will then host a year-long programme of cultural events and celebrations.

Ms Firth MP said: "I want to see growth in Southend,

I want to see people getting involved in local activities and I want to see communities developing.

"This will be an instrumental asset for our bid for City of Culture 2029.

"City of Culture in my eyes is not solely about the status; it's about the journey, development and growth of the city."

Southend is already home to several well-known actors, including Sebastian Abineri (pictured left), who met with Ms Firth MP.

Mr Abineri said: "What a wonderful way to spend a sunny morning, meeting our new MP Anna Firth to discuss building a new theatre for the new city of Southend, which will provide culture, jobs and entertainment."

The most recent City of Culture was Coventry in 2021, and the next is Bradford in 2025.

Exhibition of pupils' artwork to celebrate anniversary

A children's art exhibition will be held this month to mark 25 years of the Leigh Art Trail.

The display will consist of around 1,500 pieces created by local schoolchildren and will be available to view at Saint Pierre School on September 10 and 11, the final weekend of the trail.

Pupils from Fairways, Chalkwell Hall, Westleigh, St Michael's, Darlinghurst, Blenheim, Leigh North Street and Saint Pierre all contributed to the exhibition.

Leigh Art Trail has been an important feature in the town for the last 25 years and sees work by painters, sculptors, textile artists, ceramicists, photographers, jewellers and more displayed in shops, cafés and galleries across the town.

Saint Pierre teacher Jadie Oberholzer said: "Curating the children's work has been such a positive and fun experience, with artists, teachers and staff from the eight participating schools working together to engage their pupils and coordinate this event."

Find out more at www.leigharttrail.com

Cllr Watt, who will represent Highlands Ward, is a security instruction officer. He has also been a volunteer in the prison service, tutoring and providing advice for those struggling with alcohol problems.

Wordsmiths wanted for open mic nights

A local poet and Leigh Town Council have teamed up in their search for talented audio artists and creatives to feature in their new monthly open mic nights.

On the second Wednesday of every month at 7.30pm, poet Maddi Crease and the council are hosting the Listening Room event at Lorna & Lottie's Café in Leigh Community Centre.

They're aiming to find artists whose focus is on the spoken word to share their work in a longer set of 25 minutes. This could be a poet, singer, musician, comedian, storyteller or other creative performer.

The evening is raising money for children's cancer charity Gold Geese, so a fee is not provided, but it will act as a forum for exposure. If artists have work to sell, they are also welcome to bring it along to the event.

Upcoming events will be held on September 14, October 12, November 9 and December 14. Featured slots will be offered on a first-come, first-served basis. If you are interested, please contact Maddi at maddicreasepoet@outlook.com

Yacht club holds 55th traditional boat match

The 55th Southend Barge Match, which set off from Thorpe Bay, was held last month.

The race, organised in association with the Thorpe Bay Yacht Club, was held on Sunday, August 28.

This year's event started in Thorpe Bay close to the Yacht Club and saw Thames Sailing Barges competing to win the trophy.

Marjorie finished in first place after two-and-a-half hours, followed by Repertor four minutes and 15 seconds later.

Prizes were presented by Dick Durham at Thorpe Bay Yacht Club, and a hot meal was provided in the clubhouse.

A spokesperson for the event said: "We were very well supported by the officers and members of the Thorpe Bay Yacht Club, who provided a committee boat, trot boats and a very warm welcome to the barge crews in their clubhouse.

"We are very much looking forward now to develop the match in this format and plan to publish a date for next year's after a review of the event.

"Many thanks also to those who made donations."

The money raised will help to ensure the future of the event.

JAMES DUDDRIDGE MP

Member of Parliament for Rochford and Southend East

LOCAL NEWS THORPE BAY

Next month, I will be running my fourth London Marathon.

The incredibly warm weather in recent weeks has made the training tricky and I doubt I will be hitting a personal best this year.

However, I am pleased to be supporting another fantastic charity. In previous years, I have raised a total of £7,669 for good causes, including Havens Hospices, HARP and Southend Samaritans.

This year, I will be taking on the 26.2-mile challenge on behalf of Diabetes UK.

Like an estimated 10,000 people living in the Southend area, I was diagnosed with the condition myself about five years ago. I take insulin to manage my diabetes and have to monitor my blood glucose.

Diabetes UK does fantastic work funding ground-breaking research, helping to change the lives of those living with and affected by diabetes.

If you would like to support my fundraising efforts (every penny raised really will make a big difference), then please do kindly head over to my fundraising page at justgiving.com/jamesduddridgemp

May I take this opportunity to wish fellow runners preparing to take on the London Marathon – many of whom will also be raising cash for worthwhile causes – the very best of luck.

Whether it is your first marathon or you're a seasoned pro, I hope it goes to plan – and look forward to seeing many of you while clocking up the last remaining training miles, or on race day itself.

Warning about rogue traders

Thorpe Bay residents have been warned after police received reports of possible rogue traders in the local area.

A spokesperson for Southend Police said: "We have received reports of possible rogue traders in the Thorpe Bay area.

"If you receive a leaflet advertising any type of work or someone knocks at your door offering to do work for you, please check their credentials and do not proceed unless you are happy.

"Make sure they are a legitimate company and check their reviews if you can.

"Never feel pressured into getting work done if you don't feel it needs to be done."

If you think you have had a similar experience, contact police on 101.

It also allows you to convert your cash into 40 different currencies and offers free international transfers, and you can use the app to find out real-time currency exchange information.

MONESE: If you travel or work between the UK and Europe, Monese is a great choice. Specialising in multi-currency accounts, this digital bank does not carry out any credit checks and you don't even need proof of address. With the Simple Monese plan, you are allowed to withdraw £200 free, with a two per cent charge for any withdrawals beyond this.

REVOLUT: Revolut is a prepaid card and app that allows you to hold and exchange 30 different currencies up to £1,000 per month. You can withdraw up to £200 free of charge and there are no fees for card payments, including contactless ones. Choose from a standard account (free), plus account (£2.99), premium account (£6.99) or metal account (£12.99 per month).

CHASE: Chase is one of the largest banks in the United States and has recently come over to the UK, offering both current and savings accounts. Not only can you withdraw up to £500 per day from cash machines when abroad with no fees, but you can also earn one per cent cashback when you book your flights and on your everyday spending abroad.

IDRIS ELBA

OFF SCRIPT?

WHEN YOU'RE A DJ SUPERSTAR, A FASHION DESIGNER, MOVIE DIRECTOR, HOLLYWOOD A-LISTER, AND ALL-ROUND LOVEABLE MOGUL, ATTENTION TO DETAIL IS EVERYTHING – JUST ASK IDRIS ELBA OBE

“I’m probably a perfectionist,” admits Idris Elba OBE, who turns 50 this month. “With what I do, I need to be, whether it comes from film, music, whatever. You’re putting a piece of art out there, and you need to be confident with it because once it’s out there, it’s out.”

For a perfectionist, however, Elba is chilled and agreeable in conversation. He offers cool, considered responses with ease.

The man radiates so much energy and intensity that you can’t escape it, and that permeates through an increasingly diverse slew of roles, embodying the likes of DCI John Luther, Heimdall in the Marvel Cinematic Universe, The Wire’s Stringer Bell and Charlie Jaffey in Molly’s Game.

And yet those iconic characters only represent half of what the Londoner is all about.

His style, swagger, gruff exterior and devastating charm mean he is a man who can flit between so many different worlds; and yet he pulls off the look with respect and humility.

“I think a lot of that comes from the fact I had to struggle to get to this point,” he says. “For many years, I was a nobody who couldn’t catch a break and just blended into the crowd.”

“There were very few directors who wanted to take a chance on me, and as time went on, so too did I begin thinking that I should just focus on my music, or my art, or perhaps just get a real job.”

The relief is that Elba didn’t. In 2022, he has George Miller’s epic fantasy adventure Three Thousand Years of Longing opposite Tilda Swinton, and Thor: Love and Thunder, plus the film version of Luther, which will screen on Netflix.

“Luther returning as a film is a really big new thing, and I think for it to work it needed to be different.

“You are elongating what you have to play with, yet at the same time shortening the whole story into two hours, so the very fabric is altered.

“I think for that reason you can regard it as original and very exciting.”

Asked whether he actually affords himself the ability to stop and take stock, the father-of-two notes: “I don’t have much time to rest, and I don’t really like long sleeps. They don’t put me in a place of urgency and that’s where I want to be, certainly in terms of work and productivity and happiness. That’s not to say I don’t try to get as many hours of good sleep as I can – I’m just not very good at it,” he laughs.

Elba’s laid-back approach is a factor that will win him a bounty of script offers moving forward. He is someone who, in these troubled times of panic, indecision and hysteria, emits an effortless sense of cool. “I think it’s easy to confuse being laid-back with being laissez-faire about things,” he says. “I think you can be calm and charged at the same time.

“Your actions don’t always reflect your emotions – hey, I’m an actor, after all.”

It's all about Balance

Balance Awareness Week takes place from September 18-24 and aims to broaden the understanding of inner ear disorders and how they can affect someone's daily life.

Most people take balance for granted, yet without it, you can suffer a whole host of health problems.

Why is balance important?

Balance is needed to perform everyday activities, including walking, going up and down the stairs, and even just standing upright. It is particularly important in older adults, as good balance can help to prevent falls. Some of the main benefits of improving your balance include:

- > Preventing injuries
- > Improving posture
- > Strengthening muscles
- > Improving coordination
- > Improving cognitive function

How to improve your balance

There are several exercises you can do at home to improve your balance, and you don't need a single piece of equipment to do them.

Single leg lift

Stand upright with your feet close together. Keep your head straight, take a deep breath and slowly lift your right leg off the floor. As you gain confidence, bring your leg higher so that your knee is as close to your chest as you can comfortably manage. Repeat with your left leg.

Single leg lift side version

Stand upright with your feet close together. Keep your head straight and your eyes forward, then slowly lift your right leg to the side. Make sure you keep your body upright as you do this. Do not lean to the side. Repeat with your left leg.

Balance walk

Find a straight line or place a piece of tape on the floor. Extend both arms to your side, keep your feet straight and place your right heel at the tip of your left toes. Next, place your left heel at the tip of your right toes. Continue placing one foot in front of the other without straying from the line.

Know your NAILS

DISCOVER THE SIX MOST COMMON NAIL PROBLEMS AND HOW TO RECOGNISE THEM

Chances are you don't pay that much attention to the condition of your nails. However, did you know that a change in their appearance can indicate an underlying health condition?

BEAU'S LINES: Beau's lines are deep grooved lines that run from side to side on the fingernail or toenail. They often look like ridges or indentations on the nail plate. Beau's lines can indicate uncontrolled diabetes, a zinc deficiency or peripheral vascular disease.

YELLOW NAIL SYNDROME: If you have yellow nail syndrome, your nails will thicken and nail growth slows down. This results in a yellowish discolouration of the nails. Yellow nail syndrome is often a sign of respiratory disease or lymphedema.

TERRY'S NAILS: Terry's nails is a condition that makes the nails appear white apart from a narrow pink band at the tip. This nail condition can occur because of ageing, but it can also be a sign of a more serious health concern such as liver disease, kidney failure or diabetes.

SPOON NAILS: As the name suggests, spoon nails are soft nails that look as if they have been scooped out. Spoon nails are often a sign of an iron deficiency or a liver condition known as hemochromatosis. They are also associated with heart disease and hypothyroidism.

NAIL CLUBBING: Nail clubbing occurs when the tips of the fingernails become enlarged and the nail curves around the fingertips. Nail clubbing can be a sign of inflammatory bowel disease, cardiovascular disease or liver disease. It is also sometimes the result of low oxygen in the blood.

NAIL PITTING: Ice-pick-like depressions in the nail are known as nail pitting. This nail condition is common in people with psoriasis. Nail pitting can also be related to connective disorders such as Reiter's syndrome and alopecia areata.

Beautiful BULBS

September is the perfect month for planting spring bulbs, and these can be placed directly into borders or in pots for patios and smaller gardens. Discover our top picks for a blooming beautiful spring garden below.

easy to grow. They are well suited to both borders and pots; place them in a sunny spot for best results.

Tulips: Tulips come in almost every colour, from pastels to rich shades. They are perfect for adding vibrancy to spring borders in April and May but can also be grown in pots. Tulips favour full or afternoon sun and the soil must be well drained.

Hyacinths: Highly fragrant and available in a wide range of colours, hyacinths look amazing in borders in the front garden or in pots for a splash of colour. Hyacinths thrive in most soils as long as they are not too wet. Plant in full sun or partial shade.

Daffodils: Daffodils are synonymous with spring and there are many different varieties for you to choose from. Ranging in height from 10cm to 45cm, daffodils can be yellow, white, cream or lemon-coloured. They grow very well in pots but also make a great addition to borders.

Snowdrops: Snowdrops are the first bulbs to flower, usually in February, and are often hailed as the first sign of spring. With the ability to flower whatever the weather, even in snow, these delicate flowers thrive in moist, well-drained soil and in partial shade. Grow in borders or pots.

Iris: Iris reticulata is ideal for small pots, window boxes and raised beds. Bringing some much-needed colour to your garden as early as February, irises like the sun and free-draining spots.

Crocuses: Crocuses provide a carpet of colour in the garden from late winter onwards and are very

Most animals go into hibernation in autumn as it is the most efficient way to survive the cold winter months. Find out how to recognise hibernating wildlife in your garden and how to help them survive until spring.

Signs of hibernating wildlife

Leaf pile

A pile of leaves in a corner of the garden, in the compost bin or behind the shed can mean you have a hibernating hedgehog or two. Hedgehogs can also hibernate in bonfire piles, so be sure to check before you light.

Movement in a pond

If you have a pond in your garden and you notice movement or shadows at the bottom, this could mean that frogs are hibernating there. These are typically male frogs as they favour hibernating in water rather than in mud or under leaves.

Mounds of soil

Small mounds of soil can indicate that mining bees are nesting in your lawn or in your borders. If this is the case, it is likely that their offspring will be hibernating there until spring.

Long grass

Although long grass is not a sign of hibernation, it is highly likely that wildlife will be seeking shelter there. In particular, caterpillars and moths hibernate in long grass, as well as beetles and other grubs.

Leaves on a wall

If you notice leaves on a wall in your garden, these may not actually be leaves but clusters of butterflies who often hibernate in groups.

How to protect hibernating wildlife

- * Create leaf and log piles
- * Have plants that offer winter nectar, such as mahonia and hellebores
- * Move any bug houses to a sheltered spot
- * Put up a nest box for birds
- * Avoid late tidying of any potential hibernation spots
- * Leave out a supply of nuts to support squirrels as they collect food.

DID YOU KNOW?

- ▶ Trees contain quite a lot of water. When lightning strikes, most of the water reaches boiling point, turning it to steam and increasing pressure. This can cause the tree to explode.
- ▶ The average blue whale has a heart approximately the size of a car.
- ▶ Around 90 per cent of humans live in the Northern Hemisphere.
- ▶ Blue whales are able to hear each other from around 500 miles away.
- ▶ Platypuses can produce their own venom which is injected through barbs on the male's back legs.
- ▶ When threatened, ostriches run, although their powerful kick is capable of killing a human or even a lion.

WORD LADDER

THE AIM: Change the word at the top of the ladder one letter at a time to make the word at the bottom.

HOW TO: Change one letter on each step to make a new word. By the time you reach the end, you should have created the new word.

DO NOT rearrange the order of the letters.

TIP: There is usually more than one way to solve this puzzle.

The Blackberry Way

They look good, they taste good, and they do you good too. What more could you ask of a fruit you can gather for free?

Blackberries have been eaten in Britain since Neolithic times. And there are plenty of places to pick them throughout most of September. You'll find them in straggly clumps, in woods, hedges, heaths, roadside verges, and perhaps in your own garden.

Blackberries are a great source of vitamin C, potassium, manganese and antioxidants. Research indicates they may help prevent heart disease, certain cancers and inflammatory conditions such as arthritis.

You'll need to pick the berries when they're ripe – when their colour changes from red to purplish black. Once you're home, wash them in cold water. Add a little salt and leave them to soak for 5-10 minutes. This will get rid of any bugs, which should float to the surface.

Remember, fresh blackberries don't last long. So make sure to use them within a day or two or freeze them for later.

There are loads of delicious blackberry recipes – both sweet and savoury. This one's a twist on an old favourite.

Blackberry fruit crumble squares

INGREDIENTS:

250g sugar | 375g plain flour | 1 tsp baking powder | 200g butter (soft) | 1 egg | 450g blackberries (washed) | 1 tbsp cornflour

HOW TO MAKE:

- > Preheat the oven to 190°C/170°C fan/gas mark 5 and grease a 20x30cm tin.
- > Stir together 200g sugar, flour and baking powder. Using a fork, blend in the butter and egg. The dough will be crumbly.
- > Pat half the dough mixture into the tin.
- > Mix together the fruit, the remaining 50g sugar and cornflour. Mix gently (it doesn't matter if the mixture is a bit squishy).
- > Spread the blackberry mixture evenly over the dough.
- > Crumble the remaining dough mixture on top.
- > Bake for 35-40 minutes, till the top is golden.
- > Cool, then cut into squares. Enjoy!

FOOD & DRINK

SLOE & STEADY wins the race

There's something magical about turning a humble hedgerow berry into something to tease the tastebuds, like sloe gin. And better still, it's really simple to make.

Sloes grow on blackthorn bushes, which are found all over the UK. The bushes blossom in early spring with clouds of pretty white flowers, and the deep purple berries start forming in August.

For sloe gin, people often recommend that you don't pick them until after the first frost. Apparently, this makes the berries sweeter and softer. The only problem is that birds love sloes, too, and they might get there before you do.

So the Woodland Trust recommends that you pick sloes from late September. After washing and drying them, just pop them in the freezer. This creates an artificial frost – and the berries will keep in the freezer for several months.

When you're out picking sloes, it's a good idea to wear gloves and a long-sleeved top as their branches are prickly and covered with thorns. And remember, sloes don't taste good raw. And while eating them in this state won't harm adults, never give them to children.

How to make sloe gin

Ingredients:

500g sloes (rinsed and dried) | 250g caster sugar | 1 litre gin

Method:

- Prick the sloes with a cocktail stick and tip into a 2-litre glass jar.
- Add the sugar and gin, seal the jar and shake well.
- Once a day for a week, give the jar a good shake.
- Store the jar in a cool, dark place and leave for 2-3 months.
- Line a plastic sieve with a square of muslin, strain the liquid into a bowl and decant it into clean, dry bottles.
- Your sloe gin is now ready to drink.
- Drink it neat or top it up with prosecco for a sparkling aperitif.

OPEN HOUSE FESTIVAL LONDON – SEPTEMBER 8 TO 21

Are you itching to nose around London buildings usually closed to the public? If so, the Open House London Festival is a must. It's a two-week celebration of the city's architecture, homes and outside spaces that runs from September 8-21. And it's back this year, after a two-year break, to celebrate its 30th birthday.

There's something going on in every borough. This includes not just open buildings but also special events, guided tours, walks and family activities. The great news is that all visits and events are free – but book early to avoid disappointment. You'll need tickets for most visits and some get snapped up very quickly.

The organisers stress that the festival is not just about grand buildings; it's about celebrating every aspect of London's urban landscape in all its shapes and sizes. As well as award-winning modern offices and historical buildings, you could have the chance to step inside a suburban semi, a studio flat or even a houseboat.

In past years, around 800 buildings have flung their doors open for the event. They include 10 Downing Street, the Foreign & Commonwealth Office, the Gherkin and several private clubs. There have also been windmills, train stations, tunnels and even cabbies' shelters. So there really is something to suit all tastes.

Each year, around 250,000 visitors attend an Open House event in London, making it the biggest festival of its kind in the world. The festival is organised by a charity called Open House, and the aim is to encourage people to learn more about their environment and each other, to help make their city a better place for everyone who lives or works there.

As we go to press, the full list of 2022 events isn't yet available, so please check the festival website at openhouselondon.org.uk/2022 for the latest information.

5 PET PARENTING mistakes

We are a nation of animal lovers, with 59 per cent of UK households owning a pet. However, that doesn't mean that we always get everything right with their care. Read our list of the most common pet parenting mistakes below to see if you're guilty.

✗ NOT TRAINING YOUR PET

Did you forgo puppy training? If yes, then you are putting your pooch at a distinct disadvantage. When done correctly, training can help to provide guidance, support and structure, all of which your puppy needs in the early stages of their development.

✗ OVERFEEDING YOUR PET

Overfeeding is an extremely common pet parenting mistake which can lead to a whole host of health problems. Whether you don't know the correct portion sizes or you are guilty of handing out too many treats, it is vital that you help your pet maintain a healthy weight.

✗ AVOIDING THE VET

Vet bills can be extortionate, which can lead to pet parents avoiding essential check-ups. That being said, it is actually more cost-effective to take your pet to the vet regularly rather than wait until they require treatment. Remember, prevention is always better than cure.

✗ FORGETTING DENTAL HEALTH

Oral health problems such as sore gums, tooth decay and bad breath can all affect pets in the same way that they do humans. Therefore, it is essential that you care for your dog's or cat's teeth. Daily brushing is the most effective way to prevent periodontal disease and only takes a few minutes of your day.

✗ NOT GIVING ENOUGH ATTENTION

While you may have showered your new puppy or kitten with love, it can become all too easy to fall into the habit of not paying your pet enough attention. However, the more you observe your pet, the more likely you are to spot any behavioural changes or health issues.

PETS

Wave goodbye to SUGAR

Are you struggling to find snacks for your kids that aren't loaded with sugar? Check out these sugar-free snacks that are easy to prepare, cost-effective to make and help to support healthy teeth and gums.

Roasted chickpeas

Although chickpeas are most commonly associated with humous, they can also be roasted to create a healthy sugar-free snack. Simply place on a baking tray, drizzle with olive oil and then add whatever spices your children like.

Vegetable pikelets

Perfect for little ones who are averse to eating vegetables when they can see them, vegetable pikelets are a great savoury after-school snack. Make a batter by mixing 2 cups wholemeal flour, 3 tsp baking powder, 2 eggs and 1.5 cups of milk. Add 2 cups of your chosen vegetables and 1 cup cheese. Mix and then fry like little pancakes.

Peanut butter dip

Although some peanut butters contain sugar, you can get natural ones that are sugar-free at most supermarkets. To make a delicious kid-friendly dip, whip together equal parts cream cheese and peanut butter until light and creamy. Serve with apples or celery.

Boiled eggs

Super-simple, filling and nutritious, boiled eggs are a great snack for kids who come home from school starving. You can hard boil eggs in advance, peel and store in the fridge. Serve just as they are, sprinkle with spices or make some devilled eggs.

Guacamole

Avocado is full of healthy fats and makes a great snack for babies, toddlers and older children alike. To make a delicious guacamole, smash up or blend a ripe avocado and then squeeze in some lime juice. Stir in a little Greek yogurt until you get the desired consistency. Serve with veggie sticks or pitta.

MOTORING

TOUR DE FORCE

A streamlined dream straight out of the future, the Ford Sierra was first unveiled in 1982, and the world sat up to take note.

When Ford revealed its Sierra model at the British International Motor Show at the NEC in Birmingham near the end of September 1982, it knew the reaction would be huge.

The company was in the throes of investing more than $1.2billion into the design, production and manufacture of this sleek, slick piece of automotive engineering, and the industry immediately knew it had something big on its hands.

For Ford, the reaction was just what the doctor ordered. The pressure had been on to find a successor to the Cortina, a stylish car that was, nonetheless, constructed around convenience and practicality.

Industry experts guessed that the manufacturer's next move would be to push those ideals further forward, but instead Ford went into overdrive with a design that rivalled the comfort of Audi, the sleekness of Citroën and Porsche (indeed, the inspiration for Sierra's quarter glass came from the Porsche 928), and as for dashboard technology, the manufacturer had taken the very best elements from the likes of Saab and BMW.

Sure enough, after a slow initial take-up (mostly because of a punchy purchase price and an excess of Cortinas still sat on forecourts, now with much-reduced process), drivers gradually fell in love with the Sierra.

The Sapphire and, of course, sporty Cosworth models nicely tweaked the Sierra proposition, and it wasn't until the Mondeo arrived in 1993 that sales began to fall.

Looking at the Ford Sierra now, some may label it cumbersome and clumsy by today's aerodynamic standards, but in the 1980s, it was the very height of motor chic, and its legacy lives on today.

WHAT A PHIZZ-WHIZZING TALE

If you know your lickswishy from your snozzberry, chances are you're a fan of author Roald Dahl. September 13 – the author's birthday – marks Roald Dahl Day, and schools around the world will be celebrating the occasion with a host of fun activities.

Dahl was born in Wales in 1916 to Norwegian parents. He was just four years old when his father died. His mother decided against moving the family back to Norway, as she knew her husband wanted their children to have a British education, which he regarded as the best in the world.

Dahl's schooldays inspired many of his children's books. For instance, at his boarding school, children were asked to taste test Cadbury's chocolate bars, which inspired Charlie and the Chocolate Factory. But there were more sinister influences too, such as scary adults. In his books at least, the children always got their revenge.

After leaving school, Dahl worked in East Africa and was a spy and an ace fighter pilot during the Second World War.

In 1953, Dahl married American actress Patricia Neal and together they had five children. The couple divorced after 30 years and Dahl later married film producer Felicity Crosland.

From 1953 until his death in 1990, Dahl lived in Great Missenden, Buckinghamshire, in a house with a specially built writing hut in the garden. This was where he wrote all 20 of his famous children's books, from James and the Giant Peach in 1961 to The Minpins, published after his death.

In 2012, the interior of the hut was carefully removed and installed in its new home, the Roald Dahl Museum and Story Centre, also in Great Missenden.

He is buried at St Peter's Church, Great Missenden, along with his snooker cues, some good burgundy, chocolates, HB pencils and a power saw.
